

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method and device is disclosed for scenting a fishing lure. The device includes a body of absorbent material that is suitably fastened or affixed to the lure. Fish scent is applied to the body, which retains the scent and prevents the scent from interfering with the performance of the lure.

(18C25)